

UNIT OVERVIEW

The world is made up of both living and non-living things. The Living/ Non-Living unit helps students explore the important differences between the two. The term living thing refers to things that are now or once were alive. A non-living thing is anything that was never alive. In order for something to be classified as living, it must grow and develop, use energy, reproduce, be made of cells, respond to its environment, and adapt. While many things meet one or more of these criteria, a living thing must meet all of the criteria. Living and non-living things interact with each other all the time.

Certain reading resources are provided at three reading levels within the unit to support differentiated instruction. Other resources are provided as a set, with different titles offered at each reading level. Dots on student resources indicate the reading level as follows:

- low reading level
- : middle reading level
- ⋮ high reading level

THE BIG IDEA

Humans rely on a wide variety of living and non-living things. But we have to take care of living things differently from non-living things. Plants need water, light, and air to grow. We need plants to use for food, clothing, and much more. Animals require food, water, air, and shelter. We use animals for food, clothing, labor, companionship, and much more. As humans, we have the ability and responsibility to care for ourselves and other living things so that our own needs are met and to ensure that the world will always be full of diverse living things.

Other topics

This unit also addresses topics such as: non-living components of living things, nurse logs, sea stars, babies and parents, and cells.

SPARK

The spark is designed to get students thinking about the unit's topics and to generate curiosity and discussion.

Materials

- chalkboard or interactive whiteboard
- variety of familiar living and non-living items, including a live plant
- (optional) magazines with pictures of living things
