Department of State,2013-01-03 This volume is part of a subseries of the Foreign Relations series that documents the most important foreign policy issues of the Richard M Nixon and Gerald R Ford presidential administrations Because of the long term nature of the 1970s energy crisis however this volume includes the period of the Jimmy Carter administration covering U S policy from August 1974 until January 1981 The documentation in this volume focuses primarily on Ford and Carter policies aimed at mitigating the damage to the U S and global economy caused by rising oil prices imposed in 1973 by the OPEC cartel and in 1978 by the perceived shortage of oil supplies resulting from the Iranian Revolution The documents show that the United States conducted a broad based multilateral diplomacy to address the crisis and that U S diplomats were active participants in the development of the International Energy Agency s program of energy cooperation The economic summits of the period brought together the heads of state from oil consuming industrialized countries in Rambouillet London Bonn and Tokyo in an effort to devise a common strategy to deal with the impact of high oil prices on the global economy This is one of a growing number of Foreign Relations volumes that document global issues instead of a bilateral relationship reflecting the changing nature of U S foreign policy in response to an increasingly interrelated world For documentation on the energy crisis prior to August 1974 see Foreign Relations 1969 1976 volume XXXVI Energy Crisis 1969 1974 African Chronicle ,2005 A fortnightly record on governance economy development human rights and environment URU Catalogue United Nations Conference on Trade and Development. Technical Note Frederick M. Abbott, 2013 When the WTO TRIPS Agreement entered into force on January 1 1995 least developed countries LDCs were given until January 1 2006 to bring their legislation into conformity with the agreement subject to compliance with national treatment and most favored nation MFN treatment obligations Pursuant to Article 66 1 upon presentation of a duly motivated request the TRIPS Council is obligated to provide extensions of the transition period In view of the special needs and requirements of least developed country Members their economic financial and administrative constraints and their need for flexibility to create a viable technological base The first LDC extension was granted in 2002 further to Paragraph 7 of the Doha Declaration on the TRIPS Agreement and Public Health in respect to pharmaceutical patents and regulatory data requirements and included authority to disapply existing protections That public health related extension expires on January 1 2016 A general extension of the LDC transition was adopted by the TRIPS Council in 2005 and is set to expire on July 1 2013 The 2005 extension included a clause that has become known as the no rollback provision providing that Least developed country Members will ensure that any changes in their laws regulations and practice made during the additional transitional period do not result in a lesser degree of consistency with the provisions of the TRIPS Agreement LDCs have presented a request for an additional extension of the transition arrangement In this context they have objected to the inclusion of a no rollback clause This paper examines whether the WTO TRIPS Council has the authority to establish a no rollback requirement as a condition of further LDC transition extensions It considers the terms of the TRIPS Agreement the negotiating history of the transition arrangements other WTO Agreement language regarding waivers ambiguity of terms prospective options should there not be an agreement and policies underlying the LDC request and certain objections This paper was presented and discussed at a meeting organized by ICTSD at the WTO on May 24 2013
