An Environmental History of Canada Laurel Sefton MacDowell, 2012-07-31 Traces how Canada's colonial and national development contributed to modern environmental problems such as urban sprawl, the collapse of fisheries and climate change. Includes over 200 photographs, maps, figures and sidebar discussions on key figures, concepts and cases. Offers concise definitions of environmental concepts. Ties Canadian history to issues relevant to contemporary society. Introduces students to a new dynamic approach to the past. Throughout history, most people have associated northern North America with wilderness with abundant fish and game, snow capped mountains and endless forest and prairie. Canada's contemporary picture gallery, however, contains more disturbing images: deforested mountains, empty fisheries and melting ice caps. Adopting both a chronological and thematic approach, Laurel MacDowell examines human interactions with the land and the origins of our current environmental crisis from first peoples to the Kyoto Protocol. This richly illustrated exploration of the past from an environmental perspective will change the way Canadians and others around the world think about and
