

LIZARD EVOLUTION VIRTUAL LAB

Answer the following questions as you finish each module of the virtual lab or as a final assessment after completing the entire virtual lab.

Module 1: Ecomorphs

1. At the beginning of the virtual lab, you were asked to sort eight lizards into categories. What criteria did you initially use to make your groups? Did you revise your criteria later? Why?

I based my criteria on the size of the anoles' legs. I did not revise my criteria later. I chose the size of the anoles' legs because I believe that each of the different anoles had evolved based on their habitat, and I wanted to base my experiment on that.

2. An adaptation is a structure or function that is common in a population because it enhances the ability to survive and reproduce in a particular environment. Provide one example and an explanation of one adaptation in the Anolis lizards.

One adaptation is the short legs on the sheplani hispaniola anolis lizard. This is most likely due to the slim branch it lives on. The short legs make the lizard able to hold onto the branch/wig better and survive longer because it does not fall off.

3. Provide one evolutionary explanation for why lizards living in the same part of the habitat (i.e., grass) would have similar characteristics.

Lizards in the same habitat would have similar characteristics because there are many ways to do something, however there is only one way that is the best for surviving. Basically, lizards in the same habitat have the characteristics that are most fit for survival, so most lizards in that habitat would exhibit those most fit characteristics.

4. What is an ecomorph? Provide one example from the virtual lab.

Ecomorphs are species with similar body types and habitats. "eco" stands for ecological niche and "morph" for morphology, or shape. An example is how the sheplani hispaniola and howlandia or phaner hispaniola lizards both have short legs. Feet with sticky

5. How is an ecomorph different from a species?

An ecomorph is different from a species because it only classified the organisms as having similar body types and habitats, however species have other different characteristics such as color or look.

6. Explain how a particular body feature of one of the lizard ecomorphs from the virtual lab is an adaptation to their particular niche.

One of the lizard ecomorphs, the occaltus (Puerto Rico anole) has short legs because it needs to be able to stick to/crawl on slim things in their habitat.

Spider Webs William Eberhard, 2020-12-22 In this lavishly illustrated first ever book on how spider webs are built function and evolved William Eberhard provides a comprehensive overview of spider functional morphology and behavior related to web building and of the surprising physical agility and mental abilities of orb weavers For instance one spider spins more than three precisely spaced morphologically complex spiral attachments per second for up to fifteen minutes at a time Spiders even adjust the mechanical properties of their famously strong silken lines to different parts of their webs and different environments and make dramatic modifications in orb designs to adapt to available spaces This extensive adaptive flexibility involving decisions influenced by up to sixteen different cues is unexpected in such small supposedly simple animals As Eberhard reveals the extraordinary diversity of webs includes ingenious solutions to gain access to prey in esoteric habitats from blazing hot and shifting sand dunes to capture ants to the surfaces of tropical lakes to capture water striders Some webs are nets that are cast onto prey while others form baskets into which the spider flicks prey Some aerial webs are tramways used by spiders searching for chemical cues from their prey below while others feature landing sites for flying insects and spiders where the spider then stalks its prey In some webs long trip lines are delicately sustained just above the ground by tiny rigid silk poles Stemming from the author's more than five decades observing spider webs this book will be the definitive reference for years to come
