Law and the Political Economy of Hunger Anna Chadwick, 2019-01-31 This book is an inquiry into the role of law in the contemporary political economy of hunger In the work of many international institutions governments and NGOs law is represented as a solution to the persistence of hunger This presentation is evident in the efforts to realize a human right to adequate food as well as in the positioning of law in the form of regulation as a tool to protect society from unruly markets In this monograph Anna Chadwick draws on theoretical work from a range of disciplines to challenge accounts that portray law's role in the context of hunger as exclusively remedial The book takes as its starting point claims that financial traders caused the 2007-8 global food crisis by speculating in financial instruments linked to the prices of staple grains The introduction of new regulations to curb the excesses of the financial sector in order to protect the food insecure reinforces the dominant perception that law can solve the problem Chadwick investigates a number of different legal regimes spanning public international law international economic law transnational governance private law and human rights law to gather evidence for a counterclaim law is part of the problem The character of the contemporary global food system a food system that is being progressively financialized owes everything to law If world hunger is to be eradicated Chadwick argues then greater attention needs to be paid to how different legal regimes operate to consistently privilege the interests of the wealthy few over the needs of poor and the hungry

Investopedia's Inside Edge: Corp. finance, securities markets and equity, debt, derivatives, alternative investments, and portfolio mgmt, 2006 Innovations in Guarantees for Development Romina Bandura, Sundar R. Ramanujam, 2019-11-29 Bilateral and multilateral development agencies use guarantees in order to reduce investors exposure to risks and to attract private capital to developing countries A guarantee is a legally binding agreement under which the guarantor agrees to pay part or all of the amount due on a loan or other financial instrument in the event of non payment Across the developing world there are places where having access to the right guarantee product will enable investments that would otherwise have been blocked where the returns are there but the risks involved simply exceed market tolerances or where regulations limit investors ability to bear risk These opportunities are waiting to be seized by bilateral development agencies and development finance institutions DFIs who have the flexibility to innovate Multilateral development banks MDBs are the dominant providers of guarantees in certain market segments where their ability to influence government behavior and to reduce rather than merely reallocate risks on the ground gives them a natural advantage That said their accounting practices treatment by regulators and business models can also constrain them In other market segments specialized guarantee providers or DFIs can create tailored guarantees pricing them in a way that creates a commercially appealing proposition whilst still earning market rates of return on their capital This report sets out to present the virtues and shortcomings of scaling the use of guarantees with a special focus on opportunities for innovation by actors that operate outside the established MDB business model Since guarantees are not a form of financial flow unless circumstances require calling the guarantee with the guarantor assuming the debt of the borrower they differ from other development finance instruments in terms of structuring costs and objectives Financial Derivatives Simon Grima,2020-02-17 Should we fear financial derivatives or embrace them Finance experts Simon Grima and Eleftherios I Thalassinos explore what financial derivatives are and whether the investment world should consider them useful tools or a complete waste of time and money Investopedia's Inside Edge: Economics and financial statement analysis ,2006
