Archinesia 09 Imelda Akmal, 2015-01-01 FUTURE OF THE PAST The historical events in the early centuries of the Srivijaya kingdom that ruled over Malay Archipelago and the arrival of colonising nations afterwards are examples of the region's interlinked past. It forged a historic root for cooperation within the countries in the region now under ASEAN. Consideration about the region's past record is what strongly tugged our editorial team's thoughts. History or we could say the past inevitably constructs the present and consequently our future. As we asked some of the people in the architectural practice regarding the role of the past, many hold that the past is an important aspect that we could learn from to live our present life. ARCHINESIA Bookgazine features built projects curated by our team. Among the projects we look at the use of traditional building materials in Katamama Hotel by andramatin and the House in Cornwall Garden by CHANG Architects which belongs to a family of many generations. Can we take the past as something that bounds us or builds us? We leave it for the reader to decide. She became fascinated by the stories these women and men told of their encounters with spirits in the ritual arena and on the borders of the everyday social world. In these stories, Karo mediums conveyed their sense of historical out-of-placeness, which they described as hanging without a rope. In Indonesia's state-proclaimed Age of Development, based on the author's three years of fieldwork in urban and rural Karoland, this engaging and sympathetic account focuses on issues of experience, memory, and narrative plausibility. Steedly approaches mediums' stories not simply as reservoirs of information about what happened at a particular moment but as interested efforts to map a pathway across the shifting landscape of historical memory. Over the past century, Karoland has been the scene of colonial conquest, Christian conversion, commercial agricultural development, military occupation, revolution, migration, and modernization. Stories of spirit encounters, Steedly argues, provide an alternative, unofficial perspective on the historical transformation of the Karo social world. In addition to her rich ethnographic material, she draws on feminist theories of subjectivity William Faulkner's reconstructions of personal and collective memory and current anthropological explorations of the politics of representation to open the ethnographic imagination to historical eventfulness Mary Margaret Steedly is Assistant Professor of Anthropology at Harvard University Originally published in 1993 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 Cumulated Index Medicus, 1989 NASA Technical Translation, 1959
