Yes, there is. To begin with, there is a "physical law" The Law of Conservation of Energy

The Law of Conservation of Energy is
"Energy cannot be created, nor can it be destroyed. It simply changes form."

The body is a source of energy. The amount in the body varies according to the amount of food and oxygen intake. A single human generates only a tiny amount of energy compared to the amount of energy that is used to power a light bulb.

was built in 1975, and we were in an old 1968 Chevy Impala. We didn't see or probably ever knew and felt that then. So, when we got into the car, my head flew into the windshield. As my head was going through, the rear edge of the head had come up and my face had hit the edge of the head directly between my two eyes, pushing my skull and leaving a hole through my skull the size of a dime. Of course, I was unconscious. I was in a coma for a long time. But during this time, I experienced what Catherine had spoken about. I saw the very bright stars. I experienced the presence of intelligent beings. Although I couldn't visualize their faces, I recognized their human-like forms. They spoke to me, not verbally—but through telepathy, and told me that I was not going to die... that I had something to accomplish, something to do.

Subsequently, I did see the "Whores I have thought that are really covered up from head to toe windows. I was able, rather than a person in heaven as a normal human being. This is not in a minute.

My head went the hole through the windshield and I was the first thing my forehead had missed my face passing through the windshield. But all I knew is my skull had got hit into a hole.
