8 pages | 1782 words

Introduction

The origin of gender equality came from gender inequality. If in our society there was no discrimination between male and female, we don't need to any struggle for gender equality. Because, of this gender problem people are being deprived of their basic needs .Occasionally it is seen not only among the poor society but also the rich society. Due to the discrimination most of the country is far from their economic development. Sometimes women are able to work in outside or any corporate sector but just because of gender inequality she can not goes outside to work out and this type of discrimination makes countries economy weaken. Gender equality is important to all country. One country's development depends on its economic situation. So participation in all gender in workplace it makes a county more stronger and developed country. Gender equality is a familiar word in our society but sometimes most of the people knows the actual meaning of gender equality and how much it is important for one country, but they can't accept it. Gender equality means equality between men and women, equal opportunities regardless of gender, including economic participation and decision-making and the state of valuing different behaviors, aspirations, and needs equally, regardless of gender. Gender equality is one kind of development goal. Gender equality is equally favored by men and women. In our society women are always considered as a house-maker especially on third world countries .Gender inequality is more popular in third world countries that's why they focused on their women equality rights and it makes gender equality in every sphere of society. On the other hand according to many feminist main reasons for this gender equality is focused on women position, rights in our society. It is also an indirect way of making a strong structure of economy .Now, we see the relations between gender equality and economy. Gender equality and economic development, is like the evidence of "a rising tide lifts all boats" holds some truth. Gender equality is the multidimensional term assuming economic, cultural and social dimensions.

Background

The movement towards away gender equality began with the suffrage movement of western culture in the late 19th century.19th century this period was witnessed of significantly changes to women rights; particularly relation to the marital status. In the past years after marriage women are deprived their all rights by their paternal sides. In the colonial period women are only worked on homes, they also indirectly helped their husband in economic sectors, but they can't do it directly. Different cultural program only males were participated. After the gender equality movement women are participating economic sectors, and they are now concerning their own rights. In the1960s,United nations adopted a rule" Convention on the Elimination of All form into Discrimination Against Women". This international gender law's changes the women position in society and country's day by day. In the 1962, the UN general Assembly added women development role after that Boserup's published "Women's Role in Economic development" was published in the 1970s.In the past development rules shows that there is a financial relationship with gender that's why they...
