Change (IPCC)

Ippc Report Climate Change:

Climate Change 2001: Synthesis Report Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change. Working Group I.,2001 The Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change IPCC was set up jointly by UNEP and the World Meteorological Organisation in 1988 to provide periodic scientific analysis of the causes impacts and possible policy response options to climate change issues This synthesis report is the 4th and final part of the IPCC s third assessment report and contains information on nine policy relevant questions regarding the IPCC s 2001 assessment It is intended to assist governments individually and collectively to formulate appropriate adaptation and mitigation responses to the threat of human induced climate change

Carbon Politics and the Failure of the Kyoto Protocol Gerald Kutney,2014-02-03 Carbon Politics and the Failure of Kyoto charts the framework and political evolution of the Kyoto Protocol negotiations and examines the ensuing failure of the international community to adequately address climate change The focus is not on the science or consequences of climate change but on the political gamesmanship of the major players throughout the UNFCCC negotiation process More than an updated history of the subject matter this book provides a detailed study of the carbon targets which became the biggest influencing factor on the reaction of nations to Kyoto s binding agreements The book provides an in depth analysis of the leading nations motives including the US China and Germany in entering the negotiations in particular their economic interests Despite the effort to combat climate change in politics that the negotiations represent the book concludes that an agreement which requires almost 200 very different nations to agree on a single protocol is doomed to failure The book offers a novel contribution to our understanding of this failure and suggests alternative frameworks and policies to tackle what is arguably the most complex political issue of our time

Environmental Apocalypse in Science and Art Sergio Fava,2013-01-04 At a time when it is clear that climate change adaptation and mitigation are failing this book examines how our assumptions about valid and usable knowledge are preventing effective climate action Through a cross disciplinary empirically based analysis of climate science and policy the book situates the failures of climate policy in the cultural history of prediction and its interfaces with policy Fava calls into question the current interfaces between scientific research and climate policy by tracing multiple connections between modelling epistemology politics food security religion art and the apocalyptic Demonstrating how the current domination of climate policy by models and scenarios is part of the problem the book examines how artistic practices are a critical location to ask questions differently rethink environmental futures and activate social change The analysis starts with another moment of climatic change in recent western history the overlap of the Little Ice Age and the scientific revolution during which intense climatic scientific and political change were contemporary with mathematical calculation of the apocalypse Dealing with the need for complex answers to complex and urgent questions this is essential reading for those interested in climate action interdisciplinary research and methodological innovation The empirical analyses amount to a methodological experiment across history of science theology art theory and history architecture future studies climatology computer modelling and agricultural policy This book is a major contribution to understanding how we are precluding effective climate action and designing futures that resemble our worst nightmares

the subject Law Comparative Legal Systems Comparative Law grade B University of Auckland Law Faculty course Climate Change Law language English abstract This paper deals with the linkage of international human rights and climate change It focuses on the approach to deduce legal claims in the form of compensations and concrete measures from international human rights in the course of impairments through climate change This paper shall give a short overview on the issue climate change in general including its causes effects and the current political strategies It furthermore provides a synopsis on how human rights are impaired by global warming and climate change effects Unfortunately this essay will come to the conclusion that the international human rights approach struggles with functioning as a solitary legal basis in that context and with stepping beyond the just moral implication Human rights legislative potential rather lies in the development of more encompassing and more inclusive legal and political strategies Human rights may advisably be instrumentalized to strengthen political debates and be used as an incitement to set up enforceable and balanced agreements on reasonable measures of equalization and support
