

The figure shows the stress distribution in the cross-section of the beam under the action of a bending moment. The stress is zero at the neutral axis and reaches its maximum value at the top and bottom surfaces. The distribution is linear across the height of the beam.

The maximum stress is given by the formula: $\sigma_{max} = \frac{M}{I} \cdot y_{max}$, where M is the bending moment, I is the moment of inertia of the cross-section, and y_{max} is the maximum distance from the neutral axis to the outer fibers.

The stress distribution is shown in the figure. The stress is zero at the neutral axis and reaches its maximum value at the top and bottom surfaces. The distribution is linear across the height of the beam.
