1. Pakistan and the Modern World

Q1. What was the rationale of Pakistan?

Q2. What were the circumstances that led to the creation of Pakistan?

Q3. Discuss the early problems of Pakistan.

Q4. Discuss Liaquat Ali Khan as a great orator.

Q5. What were the expectations of Liaquat Ali Khan from the Western World?

Answer:

Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan visited U.S.A to establish friendly relations with that emerging power. He was given chance to address American people at Kansas University He told them the facts behind the creation of Pakistan, early hardships of Pakistan and future role of Pakistan for the establishment of peace in the whole world. His wording and way of expression prove him forceful orator.

He told the logical reasons which caused creation of Pakistan. The Hindus were great in number, politically, economically and socially. The Hindus were stronger than the Muslims. It is doubtless that both the Hindus and the Muslims had been living together for many centuries but hard differences of religious outlooks, economic principles and social system could not make them one nation.

It was reasonable demand of Indian Muslims to get separate homeland for the security of their own culture and civilization. The Hindus believed in the caste system whereas the Muslims believed in the equality of men. The Hindus differed sharply from the Muslims. Pakistan had to face back-breaking hardships in the early stage of its life.
